Character is defined by the choices you make – especially the choices you make under pressure.

There are no do-overs in life. You get one shot. Literally one shot to get it right.

Especially when it comes to your family's safety.

Systems break. TORNADOS take out power plants. Earthquakes level buildings. Floods erase entire city blocks. You can't outrun a disaster any more than you can afford to run away to a better place when after the hurricane the looting sets in. Like a plague. Spreading fear and panic.

When that happens, survival instincts kick in. When the food, water, medicine, and whatever else people think they'll need to make it through the disaster runs out...

If an armed group of hungry thugs turns up at your door, you want to be able to greet them with a gun. Preferably, you want everyone in your family to greet them with guns. And you want your family to know where they are and how to use them – before the disaster hits and the looting starts because by then it is too late.

With this quick guide to keeping your guns safe, secure, and out of the wrong hands you will be prepared come what may.

Act now, define your character, don't let bad characters define you.
